

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

BTL Release Next Generation Exam Delivery Platform, SecureAssess.

Shipley, United Kingdom, October 2007

BTL Group Limited today launch SecureAssess, their next generation e-Assessment delivery platform. Part of the Surpass suite of development and delivery products, SecureAssess reflects the step change in technology and expectations around the delivery of onscreen assessments.

Built using the very latest development technologies from Microsoft and Adobe, and designed using a modular and service orientated architecture to meet the demands of Web 2.0, SecureAssess breaks with the traditional model of either LAN or Web delivery, allowing for the first time the delivery and management of onscreen assessments via a method that utilises the benefit of both models.

Keith Myers, BTL Managing Director said "Traditionally there has been a reliance on LAN based delivery for High Stakes assessments run onscreen. Whilst this is a very stable solution, deploying this to large numbers of test or training centres can be onerous. With SecureAssess our customers can now choose models of delivery, but still manage both channels from one central Administrative application"

With it's long history of developing e-Assessment solutions for organisations tackling the challenge of onscreen deployment, BTL are well placed to utilise their experience in this area to produce what will be a first in the field, an easy to deploy but fully secure onscreen assessment solution.

To support the release of SecureAssess, BTL will be offering a series of online web seminars to allow organisations to see for themselves how easy to use yet powerful the system is.
